Couple we is worth it

Dear Abby: My husband and I are happily married and will celebrate 15 years of marriage this year. We have a 5-year-old daughter. Our dilemma is whether we should have another child. I'm 38 and my husband is 40. We are not comfortable with the thought that our daughter is getting independent. We plan on doing a lot of traveling, and I will change jobs after I complete school. I am not sure about starting with a baby.

We are doing OK financially. If we have a second child, it would be within the next year, while I take classes and can be home to babysit. Our daughter is well-adjusted and plan on putting her in activities like dance and gymnastics. We would like your opinion, and also to hear from other women who had only one child, as well as women who were raised without one. Maybe Only One In Georgia

Dear Maybe Only One: If you are considering enlarging your family, your daughter will have a significant chance to recommend it. What the six-year age difference means is that your children will not grow up "together." By the time the younger one is starting high school, the older one will be in college. When they are...
